About this scholarship

Description/Applicant information

Disclaimer Information - This scholarship is offered and administered by our partner, Global Voices. The information and timeline may be updated in accordance with their update / advice.

Please note the timelines have been updated due to the current pandemic outbreak.

Curtin University is supporting a position for a student to participate in the 2021 UN Commission on the Status of Women (CSW) Global Voices Scholarship Program. The Scholarship Program includes participation in both a domestic and international delegation, as well as private meetings with subject matter and policy experts, esteemed academics, Commonwealth Government Departmental Secretaries, Members of the Australian Parliament, and leaders of civil-society and private organisations.

This scholarship provides an exciting opportunity for you to develop your policy writing skills, create strong industry connections, and network with like minded young Australians from across the country.

- Scholarship Program Components:
- Global Voices Policy Fellowship
- Canberra Briefings Program
- Participation in the UN Commission on the Status of Women in 2022

The Policy Fellowship allows the successful applicant to develop research, analysis and policy-writing skills through writing a policy paper related to the delegation agenda. Your paper will include specific recommendations for domestic policy application.

The Scholarship is ideal for students with an interest in gender equality, social and economic policy, human rights, and international development. The Program has a strong international element so we encourage young Australians with a global perspective to apply.

Global Voices is a not-for profit organisation that is committed in nurturing the next generation of Australian leaders by providing practical experience in foreign policy and international relations. Since their establishment in 2011, over two-hundred young people were supported by Global Voices to attend over fifty international summits to represent Australia.
